While his duties included full fiscal responsibility for Block’s operations in Florida and Puerto Rico, one of his primary responsibilities included real estate expansion of company facilities. Thirty-five plus years with Block has given Bo valuable real estate experience and a unique knowledge and perspective on the dynamics of real estate and business and how real estate impacts business growth and success. This experience has not only offered Bo an intimate knowledge of Florida’s geography but has also enriched his knowledge of the demographical differences that make Florida such a challenging and opportunistic environment for real estate.

With over 5000 associates and 350+ locations in his charge, Bo’s division was a consistent leader in financial performance year after year. The result of this background has positioned him to assist real estate clients in obtaining the best sites possible to create rapid growth in most industries.

Originally from Washington D.C., Bo studied Business Administration at the University of Maryland and Moved to Daytona Beach in 1969. He and his family were later moved by Block to West Palm Beach in 1991 where he administered Block’s Florida operations until retirement in 2006.
